

Wednesday 3rd March

Re-read the story 'Escape from Pompeii' you could read it aloud to someone at home.

Lesson objective: I can proof-read my work for spelling and punctuation mistakes

I can suggest ways that I could improve my work.

Today you need to read back through your work to check your spelling, punctuation and grammar. You can also check through for anything you could improve or add.

For example, if you have used the word hot too many times you could replace it with a word such as boiling (which also means hot). Or instead of using a big long list of describing words (adjectives) you could use a simile or metaphor.

Once you have checked your work yourself please ask an adult to help you to check through too. You must do this together so they can help you.
